Cloud-based file synchronization service - no local storage required
Online file synchronization with fully-featured user interface Easily connect to the cloud and access your files from anywhere. I dont think that ids the best in the file storage of the day to day files, but thats just my opinion. I just think it should be more of what I need, not just a place to put files so I could use them from anywhere. Security concerns might have been what prompted me to use this program. I havent lost a file (yet) but when I transfer files over a network and it goes down, I cant access them. If I wasn't extremely careful, I could lose something and that could cost some money. It's not a file server so I wouldn't know what to do with it if anything happened to it. But this is what made me download it and use it. I don't feel like it's worth the $15-$20 for 2 gigs. So I downloaded it and I have almost 20 gigs of space I have used up. I can download again if I feel like it but I have NO WAY of knowing when I have lost it. It's definitely worth the $15-20. It's free, it's easy to use, and it basically is a much better way of doing something that's always been kind of a pain. I am not going to even touch local area file servers like on my network because I don't see that I could even use them if I was hacked into. I would have to wipe the server and set it back up. But for a place to back up files from my PC with 100% certainty that they will be there if my internet goes out? ...this is the program for me. I used this program to sync an entire folder on my PC with my phone (via USB). The phone file matched the file the PC file exactly and it was a hard drive that I had. Easy peasy. While it's a great program for the most part, there are a few minor problems that it has. Sensitive mails, passwords, documents are not synced.
