I use it all the time. If your computer won't let you download it, I recommend going to the support site and getting the registration key. It took less than ten minutes and you can get it for a lot less than the one I paid for. I highly recommend this product."

Samantha: "I got this for my daughter for Christmas. We bought it on the premise that it would simplify our technology and help her understand it. She loves it and is able to research and make notes on math and science information. It can answer basic research questions, provide information on history, geography, space exploration, biographies, etc. I also like that it allows her to cut and paste info from web sites. We both feel it is a necessary addition to our growing collection of software. The trial version is quite a bit different than the full version. If your looking for a complete binder of information look elsewhere. However, if your child is just starting to learn and you want to utilize the internet to learn more about basic math and science topics this is a great tool to get started with. I highly recommend it."

Ben: "This is an excellent
