Can someone explain me the significance of each line of code? I'm looking for the source of "Bharat" and "Indiraji" strings. A: Hints on what the code is doing "Bharat" and "Indiraji" have been declared as global variables, so they are going to exist after function foo returns. void foo(char* str1, char* str2) { // The variable str is assigned to a pointer to str1 char* str=str1; // The variable strcpy() is used to copy the string stored in str1 // into the memory pointed to by str. strcpy(str,"Hello"); // Now str has the string "Hello" in it. printf("%s",str); } int main() { // foo() is called, passing "Bharat" and "Indiraji" as arguments to it foo("Bharat","Indiraji"); }
