Treant. Nigel Farage should be kicked out of the EU Parliament for 'erring on his human rights', says Nick Clegg. The chair of the Liberal

Democrat Human Rights Commission said UKIP's former leader should have responded to a ruling on the fate of two asylum seekers in his party's favour. The UKIP leader claimed that the two men were both involved in violent incidents, but was not able to prove it. For the crimes of seeking asylum in the UK, the pair, who were released on bail in November, could face up to two years in prison if they are found guilty at the Old Bailey. Their lawyer said they were shocked by the ruling and appealed. However, Nigel Farage, pictured today, argued that it was not his fault. The Ukip leader tweeted: 'I did not dismiss the motion as I was able to prove that neither of the two men had been involved in a criminal incident. 'If I felt I had erred I would have pushed the point of legality.' Nick Clegg, pictured today, said Farage should have supported both the men Tory MEP Mr Clegg said: c9d1549cdd

For more information about gameplay, please go to the gameplay videos page. Mario's Golf is a 2D rpg-adventure for the Super Nintendo Entertainment System. The game was released in arcades by Nintendo in 1992, but never made it to the US. It was only released in Japan with a 100-player mode. Gameplay: Mario's Golf consists of a number of well-designed golfing courses, with the player's character consisting of Mario's body, clothes and a golf club. The player must move around a golf course and tap the A button to swing the club. Don't have a Super Nintendo Entertainment System? No problem! The game is in FBA format which does not require a game console. Super Punch-out!! is an arcade boxing title by Konami, released in 1990 for the Famicom. It is the first officially licensed game featuring the Sonic the Hedgehog character and features plenty of references to the series. The gameplay is very similar to that of boxing games from the era, but there are some noteworthy differences. You control Sonic by swinging his arm in front of him and punching the on-screen opponent, and his speed in a given arena is directly related to his health. If the player gets hurt, Sonic loses a life. Sonic also has three special moves, which can be charged by pressing the punch button before throwing a punch. These moves help Sonic defeat his foes. Each special move has a predetermined range, in terms of how far away it can be used from the opponent. Super Mario Bros. 2 is the second game of the Super Mario Bros. series, and the first to follow the classic structure of the first game: the player plays as Mario and must run to the right and jump to avoid enemies and obstacles. Compared with Super Mario Bros. 1, Mario's new moves include a new projectile that reflects on enemies, a jump-in move, and the ability to roll. In addition, the Koopa Troopas are redesigned into larger, more powerful models, who can be easier to defeat with a powerful weapon. The Legend of Zelda: Four Swords Adventures is a Japanese role-playing game for the Super Nintendo Entertainment System. It is a turn-based side-scrolling RPG set in the same world as The Legend of Zelda: A Link to the Past. The player takes control of one of four characters, with each character having a different weapon and action. Through the game, the characters make their way to four sacred locations

What's new in Convoy:

Whenever I watch television, I long for early 80's sitcoms featuring excellent music selections. Sadly, the new Ghostbusters musical, which is coming to Vancouver March 16th, doesn't have a recorded soundtrack, so I'll have to settle for the 30-minute long "montage" they use as background music throughout the show. This short mix includes songs by such artists as Labi Siffre, Ultravox, Missing Persons, U2, The Outfield, Public Enemy, Cheap Trick and Tim Finn. Remember when the original Ghostbusters theme had roots in The Who, which was one of the first rock songs I learned to play on guitar, especially on the fingerpicking riffs? Now that I'm a few years older and have more than an OCD grasp of numbers, I'm glad none of the songs in this montage are longer than 3 minutes. I'll take one easy sing-a-long over too-long tracks any day! I still wish they would have made an alternative soundtrack featuring lighter songs heard in the movie. Dr. Venkman, the bumbling cliché that is Alan Tudyk, tries to work in a new version of the Ghostbusters theme, but it sounds forced. I guess he's trying his best to sound authentic to the old theme. I haven't seen much of the new Ghostbusters movie yet, but I've been looking forward to this for months. They've been teasing it all week since the film was nominated for a Golden Raspberry Award (pressing the award was considered a serious insult in the 80's!) If you're from Vancouver (or visiting), you might want to think about going to see this Friday, March 16. (If you've seen it, leave a comment below!) If you haven't been following my blog, you might want to read about the origin of the egg-sucking ghost in our April Fool's Day blog on this site. In Return of the Living Dead, 4120 Zombie Spring Break Massacre I am sure that each time I mentioned this movie on my blog, I've received comments on why I chose to do so. Here's the quick rundown... 1. Every Easter is perfect for a spooktacular zombie flick. Everyone loves a well written zombie story. I love it

Find out!Q: Running module code and returning results at a later date I have an application in which I would like to use the results of some module calls. The module has static objects (a cache), so would not be useful to run on multiple threads. I would like to run the module's function once in the morning, and then return results to the calling function - what's the best way to do this? A: Use threading.Thread. You could fork it off in a separate thread (on a separate process, if you so desire), and then simply have the function just return the result, then end the thread (or process) once it's done:

import threading
def function(): #...do your calculations here... return result def do_stuff():
    threads = []
    for i in range(5):
        t = threading.Thread(target = function)
        threads.append(t)
        t.start()
    for t in threads:
        t.join()
    print "All done!"
