Full Screenshots: Total Video Converter (TotConV) is a free and open-source tool that was released way back in 2003, originally designed to convert video for free, offering a fully free and open source solution which is provided for the users, being developed solely by volunteers. There have been a couple of more recent developments and Total Video Converter has been updated, offering many improvements and new features, which can make the conversion of video a hell of a lot easier. TotConV is a YouTube converter which can be used to download video from YouTube to your hard disk, in multiple resolution and formats, including MP4. Also, it can convert video to other formats, such as HD, 3D and even to slideshows. But why is TotConV so good? There are plenty of reasons why TotConV can prove to be one of the best tools you can use for free, which we will list below. Free and open-source In this day and age, in which there are some good reasons to doubt the future of software, software created openly for the public is more secure than software created secretly for the internal use of the company which can only be used by just one person. You can use TotConV without any concerns, not having to doubt whether or not your personal data is going to be misused. On the other hand, software created by companies for their own benefit may or may not be completely trustworthy, as they may keep the specific information they need safe for their own use, but they may use that information to create something for their own use, without telling anyone. Therefore, the fact that TotConV has been made openly available to the public, for them to use, proves that they value their users and their personal information, and this is what they say when aa67ecbc25
