Making a custom icon for a website involves editing a number of files. The following files can be edited: Photoshop file to create the icon. Either a PNG or GIF file to hold the transparent background A Photoshop and Illustrator file to create the icons/character. The icon will need to be saved as either a PNG or GIF file, preferably one of those that are transparent. The size should be no larger than 32x32 pixels. Most icons are created in an Illustrator file for the background, and are saved as a Photoshop file. Photoshop and Illustrator files. Creating an icon in Photoshop Step 1 A good icon is a combination of complex shapes, simple shapes, and basic colors. If you are designing your own icon for a logo, you should do some simple art studies first. Sketching from life and from your imagination should be your first tools. If you haven't been sketching, then you should sit down and draw simple sketches or paintings to get ideas about shapes and colors. Sketching is a process that can continue for a long time, and can really help you get ideas. If you are not the best at art, get some tutorials and read about color theory. Step 2 Open your picture in Photoshop and create a new document. This will be your work file. Step 3 In Photoshop, choose the Rectangle tool. The brush will be a flat color. Create a rectangle that is large enough to hold all the elements of your design, and move the cursor to the corner of the rectangle. Click once, hold down the shift key and click again. Step 4 Press Alt + Ctrl and click on the design area you just created. Add more Rectangles to the design. Use different shapes and brush sizes and colors to create different areas in the design. Keep the brushes and the edges of the shapes clean and organized. Try to use a big brush for the major elements, and a small brush for details. You may want to create an outlined rectangle for the main graphic. Step 5 Once you get the basic shape of the design, add a pattern layer. Click on the Add Layer Mask icon and select the Brush tool from the patterns. Choose a soft brush and lightly sketch in the pattern over the design. This will help you match colors and will blend the background into the design. Make sure that you have a soft edge on the brush and that the size

What's New in the?

Pages Wednesday, March 25, 2013 Michael J. and the Imaxing of Movies Yup, I'm back. I'm no film critic or expert, but I have a soft spot for cinema. I'm as geeky as it gets when it comes to everything Mad Max and the Matrix. I like to watch old sci-fi movies and I enjoy the new stylish sci-fi I'm currently watching. So when my neighbour's fiancée recommended her friends bring her to see the movie Happy Endings when it was shown at the Imax cinemas, I was very interested to see how it would look and sound. I didn't know that part of the Imax was an Imax sky movie theater, but it makes sense with all the advertising. The screen is HUGE and the quality of the film looks top-notch. I watched it in 3D. The price is not cheap, so unless you're spending Christmas/Valentines with your girlfriends/cousins, you might not like it. And I found the soundtrack very annoying. However, the fact that the 3D really helps make the movie look good and believable didn't hurt at all. I liked Happy Endings. Like I said, the film isn't going to change anybody's mind, but I really enjoyed the experience. It's different and you really can't beat the quality. A few films that come to mind were Waking Life, Final Fantasy and Matrix. You can get a small taste of the experience over at the Imax site.Q: Show absolute and relative paths of files in src tag in HTML I have a folder structure like this: /rootfolder /menu index.html //shows the menu /projectFolder index.html //shows the menu /srcFolder index.html //shows the menu I am showing a menu using the href link of a inside a tag. It works perfectly fine when the tag's href link is pointing to index.html inside /srcFolder (or in any other folder) because I am showing the entire path of the file. But what I need is to
