Features Key:

- Your own town with different zones, all of them with NPCs
- Don't be afraid of zombies, vampires, or heck even your own sister :)
- Meet interesting characters in your own quest
- An ending and a soul to search for
- Quests which influence your own story and don't just show up
- You can save your game and play it later on
- Kept fun, keep changing and add things. It grows every game session
- You are attacked by people and creatures, but you can keep you cool
- Three different classes to play and multi-classing possible
- A quest system with 3 quests each game session
- Almost everything is kept short, under 15 pages
- Cannot share quest lines, the quest author is master of his stories
- You can choose custom female or male portraits
- You can insert your own black and white pictures from your own photoalbum
- After 20 hours play, I have published over 200 pages of game manual and just over 15 hours of game quests. It continues to grow! Also add to this, all source files are open (CC) and free to use
- The Player classes (monk, knight, bard) have also been given their own manual. My black and white picture of the player classes was taken from a game session I played along. Giving credit on that don't really hurt anything (View game story). Anyway, the black and white picture made my player classes look really nice, so I'm also giving credit for that
- Last Friday I released a mobile version of my game. Go to

Tower Wars is a new and unique spin on the competitive tower defense genre! The game combines elements of tower defense, real-time strategy, and all-out multi-player mayhem to bring you a completely unique experience, delivered with a fun and funny not-so-old world style!

THE SLIGE UNIT The Slige Unit is the latest unit to grace the battlefield! It can carry up to 2 traps and deploys with a powerful explosion when hit by a trap. Charge Mode: (Hold D to charge) Throw enemies towards traps for massive spike damage. Interrup Mode: (Hold R to set back from charge mode) Sling your traps like a standard projectile and knock back enemies. Vortex Mode: (Hold X to charge up) Throws a small vortex of energy, damaging surrounding enemies.

DEFENSE Create mazes to trap enemies! Upgrade and improve towers to knock back and knock out enemies!

BUILDING AND UPGRADING YOUR UNITS Towers and units are bought, upgraded and leveled up! Utility abilities can be learned by leveling up a unit's resource management and upkeep tiers.

SPEED Speed levels up everything and allows special attacks, special traps, and siege units to be cast!

BONUS UNITS Goblin units, spider units, gargantua, and many other unique units will be added in the future!

PLAY WITH FRIENDS Play in multiplayer on the same map. Play in ranked or unranked matches!

Mod: What would tower wars be without a few mods? We've got you covered, we do our best to incorporate as many mods as we can. Some we can add, others we can't, but we are always looking for help!

Special thanks to: -Solid Snake for the awesome music -The Smoking Bacon for the unique weapons and units -Zeplazam for the awesome graphics -Tilolo for making mods -Kusna for the helpful ideas -Ompolk for the video editing -Kip for the beta -All the goon testers for testing our game at work! -Mage for his voice acting and helping us with this title: Join the Tower Wars Community and be heard! We're looking for people interested in c9d1549cdd

So would it be correct to say this? They were the best in the business,!, and also are the fastest too. I heard from a friend of mine that "the best in the business, & also are the fastest too" should be taken as one word. So is this true? In which cases, would it be correct to use a comma with a conjunction? A: Your friend is right. Commas are used in one of three ways: (When not using 'otherwise') to separate two items in a series When 'otherwise' introduced by 'and' Useful for a long list All of these must appear before the 'otherwise'. There is no comma between a conjunction and 'and', nor between a conjunction and a list of 2 items. In a series of items starting with 'and': There were smiles all around. They had a very happy face. A little boy was sitting at the piano. All of these can be rewritten to using a comma (or semicolon) in this way: Smiles all around, they had a very happy face, a little boy was sitting at the piano. A short series of items separated by 'and': Then came a call for tea, which they all took with a will. All of these can be rewritten to using a comma (or semicolon) in this way: Then came a call for

Menu Icons By All of us at Marcia McNutt Media Three brothers were killed and two others critically injured when a three-story apartment building collapsed into a third-story parking garage early Wednesday morning. Sources said the accident happened around 6:30 a.m. when the fourth floor of an apartment building located at the intersection of 150th Street and Fredonia Avenue collapsed and landed on the third floor of the building, which was under construction. The first three levels of the three-story building had been completed and were occupied by tenants as of Wednesday morning, according to the sources. Two of the victims were pronounced dead at the scene, while a third victim, a man, died a short time later at Loyola Marymount University Medical Center, according to a witness. A fourth person, a male, suffered a broken leg and is being treated at the hospital. The male was injured when the building fell on him, according to a source. One possible scenario of what happened would have the building suffered a power outage, after which the wall fell, according to the source. Chicago Building Commissioner Robert Rivera said he had no idea what caused the collapse, and could not confirm the number of people injured. The building had been under construction for about a year, officials said. The Cook County Medical Examiner's office will determine the victims' causes of death, Rivera said. Rivera said an investigation is under way and that the City of Chicago Inspections Office was notified of the incident, but declined comment on specifics. Photos of the scene show a crane being used to remove part of the building. No units were affected by the accident. #include "SaveGameMenus.h" #include "ui_SaveGameMenus.h" #include "../././core/ui_menus.h" #include "../././core/core.h" #include
