More particularly, the present invention relates to a calibration circuit for a synchronous SRAM cell which reduces flicker noise in the SRAM cell. II. Description of the Related Art Shown in FIG. 1 is a conventional synchronous SRAM cell 10. The synchronous SRAM cell 10 includes a word line WL and a complementary bit line BL. The word line WL is connected to a gate of a pass transistor TR. The complementary bit line BL is connected to a gate of a transfer transistor TR1. When a word line WL is active and a complementary bit line BL is precharged, a cell is read by activating a word line WL, and the complementary bit line BL is precharged again so as to read the cell through the transfer transistor TR1, which stores a bit value depending on a voltage of the complementary bit line BL which is precharged. FIG. 2 is a timing diagram illustrating operation of the synchronous SRAM cell 10. Referring to FIG. 2, the word line WL and the complementary bit line BL which are precharged are activated, and as a result, a storage node SN and a complementary storage node CN form storage nodes of the two flip-flops 15 and 16. As shown in FIG. 2, the storage node SN of the flip-flop 15 is affected by an externally applied bias voltage Vdd. In other words, an off state of the storage node SN is determined by the externally applied voltage Vdd. Therefore, when a word line WL is active, the flip-flop 15 stores a logic state of a complementary bit line BL corresponding to the voltage Vdd. When the word line W 6d1f23a050
