After all, how would you even know what decision to make? --- PaulHoule >>There is no reason to make any damn decisions at all. I like this idea, even for strings. I can declare a message as an infrastructure type and use a hash-code function to translate between them. Why not do all this in your favorite dynamic language? Q: Show that every finite positive integer has a square root Show that every finite positive integer has a square root. So far I understand I need to write  $n$  as a product of prime numbers  $p_1, p_2, p_3, \dots, p_k$  which gives  $n = p_1^{a_1} p_2^{a_2} p_3^{a_3} \dots p_k^{a_k}$ . If I then take  $2^{a_1} p_2^{a_2} p_3^{a_3} \dots p_k^{a_k}$  I will have the square root of  $n$ . What I don't get is the condition  $k \geq 0$  and  $\sum a_i \geq 0$ . Do I just have to look through all positive integers to see which ones have this property or is there a rule to follow? A: You need to reason about prime factorizations. If you want to prove that every prime  $p$  has a square root in  $\mathbb{Z}_p$  (the residue field at  $p$ ), you can reason by induction on  $p$ , or you can just consider a prime factorization of  $p$  as a product of primes congruent  $c_6a93da74d$
