

I had a problem installing the ActiveX component for RSA Advantage Anypay on my Delphi 10.2 using the code that was given in the RSA website for Delphi and the application works. If I download the 4D Payments SDK 16.0 Build 6863 for Delphi.NET ActiveX COM Edition and unzip it, I can run a form successfully with the Advantage Anypay components on it. Yet there is no solution to the code provided by the manufacturer (RSA) for Delphi 10.2. If you wish to find out more about the installation and use of ActiveX controls for Delphi.NET, see the IPWorks Installation Guide for ActiveX Controls. Finally, I did not write this blog post, but downloaded the 4D Payments SDK 16.0 Build 6863 for Delphi.NET ActiveX COM Edition from the download location, unzipped the package, and ran a Delphi 10.2 Win32 Windows application. To get started you simply need to add the ActiveX DLL to the YourApplication.exe.bpl file or to the user32.bpl file. This will automatically add the SocketWrench ActiveX control to your application. The SocketWrench ActiveX control works in Windows 95, 98, and ME and Windows NT, 2000, XP, Vista, and Windows Server 2008. For more information on the SocketWrench ActiveX control you can browse the projects developed in the IPWorks Product Team. Like most older Embarcadero products, Delphi for.NET is a component suite. It is a platform for the development of rich Internet applications, making use of Internet technologies such as XML, AJAX, REST, and OOP. Delphi for.NET supports all the .NET languages and is built on a well-documented framework. Because IPWorks is a commercial component suite, Delphi for.NET is a more expensive proposition than the free-of-cost components and packages from other vendors, but it is a worthwhile investment for developers and architects.

4D Payments SDK 16.0 Build 6863 For Delphi .NET ActiveX COM Edition

from the very beginning a high priority for the bank software group is our customers' system needs. we pay a lot of attention in order to support all possible applications and/or servers. with this installation package, you will get instant access to all the required runtime libraries and components for both the .net and delphi edition of enterprise architect. using tx spell.net you can add extremely fast, highly reliable and very accurate spell checking to your tx text control activex based vb6 applications. technically, it is based on tx spell.net for windows forms that gives you access to the power of .net technology in your win32 based application. in this release we added a print preview and selection of the preview pages, improved print dialog to allow to change all settings of printer and preview dialog to add menu items, to allow you to search the printer and add it to the dialog, allow to add a printer to the dialog from the file system and to remove a printer from the dialog. we have extensive experience using office and sharepoint for business intelligence. we leverage the sharepoint object model and custom development to take advantage of the functionality. we also have a lot of customers who are building custom ui controls using windows forms. we have developed for delphi, visual basic, c++ and other .net languages. we've written many applications using asp and asp.net. we have also been doing some c++ development using the qt libraries. some of the forms are small components (e.g. edit box, drop down list), while others are more complex c# class libraries. we've also written small applications for the iphone and blackberry platforms. we do not use any silverlight, nor do we have any interest in embedding such a proprietary technology into our own applications. open source alternatives are always available. 5ec8ef588b
