Version von Black Widows pro PC, PlayStation 4, Xbox One & Mac Download black widows 8 meg keygen 1a Undefined index: error message in C:\inetpub\wwwroot\aaa\ajax.php on line 7 A: Your PHP file has been saved with UTF-8 coding without the BOM. So, this causes the invalid character sequence in your URL. Change your PHP file to be saved with the BOM. You can verify if the PHP file is saved with UTF-8 coding or not by opening your file in a text editor (e.g. Notepad) and then: Ensure you see characters like "é" in your file Right click on the character and choose Encoding Check the box that says "Auto Detect"
Make sure your file is saved with UTF-8 coding. Since the character "é" is not in the ASCII character set, it does not show in a normal text editor. You can get more information on: UTF-8 and UTF-16: Are UTF8 and UTF16 the same thing? and check on the mbstring functions and the mb_check_encoding function to see how UTF-8 encoding works. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/UTF-8#UTF-8_character_sets http://www.php.net/manual/en/function.mb-check-encoding.php http://www.php.net/manual/en/function.mb-convert-encoding.php However, you are still going to have to correct your filename's coding to be saved correctly. That should fix your original error. Q: CKEditor + dynamic plugin upload I am trying to insert a plugin with a specific name from the ckeditor's plugins folder. I am having 2 main problems no matter what plugin name I give it, it takes always the first one in plugins folder. I am not able to get the file that plugin wants to be uploaded. It always gives an empty string This is the code I am trying : var ckeditor = CKEDITOR.replace('#textbox_a', { plugins:'mydialog' //plugins: 'gcomposition', //plugins:'myplugin' }); var f = CKEDITOR.dom.getDocument().getBody().
