Mobile, Ala. - The dirty leftovers collected from the annual fish fry in the parking lot at the Mobile Civic Center will make their way to the Mobile Food Bank to nourish those in need this summer. This year's theme is "The best fish is the freshest fish." Fries and popcorn will be sold for $1, to benefit the Mobile Food Bank. The event begins at 5 p.m. Saturday at the Civic Center. Mobile's own Buddy Smith, star of the popular Food Truck Fest events, will be on hand to sign autographs.

Foot control is crucial for living in and being mobile on the surface of Earth. It also has great consequences for understanding the development and control of human walking. It has been assumed that the development of barefoot walking is the result of learning of movement control over the last 20,000 years while using the barefoot. During the past decade, we have attempted to study the effect of habitation to human locomotion. Although our studies failed to find any significant difference in human movement between habitation and barefoot walking, we have formulated the hypothesis that habitation to plantar pressure information is achieved through learning. In this hypothesis, plantar pressure is first utilized for controlling lateral ankle movement and gradually for controlling higher range of motion of ankle joint, knee, and hip as habitation to plantar pressure information is accumulated. Because the ankle is in continuous motion, the muscle synergy of the plantar flexor muscles becomes essential for regular plantar pressure pattern. In this study, I examined the cortical activity related to plantar pressure control. It was found that plantar pressure control was associated with that of the lateral knee movement at the same period. These observations suggest that the observation of plantar pressure may also provide important information for understanding of the effects of habitation on human movement control. I hypothesize that, in habitual walking, when plantar pressure information is accumulated by learning, the plantar pressure pattern is appropriately arranged. In this study, I used simultaneous EEG-fNIRS measurement in order to investigate the time-course changes of brain activity related to plantar pressure control
